Timetable-creation

University events and timetable creation

General Examination Regulations („allgemeine Prüfungsordnung")	Study and Examination Regulations („Studien- und Fachprüfungsordnung")	Module Handbook („Modulhandbuch")
• Examination regulations for the entire faculty WIAI • Basic framework conditions of the study programme	• Course-specific regulations such as duration of study, stay abroad, modules to be taken and learning objectives	• Exact breakdown of the modules to be taken • Most frequently needed to plan your studies

Typical types of events

Lecture

- Biggest event
- Mostly with the Professor himself
- Teaching the theory

Exercise

- Applying the theory from the lecture
- Often in smaller groups
- New, more practical content also possible

Tutorial

- No new content
- Student tutor answers questions and you work on additional exercises
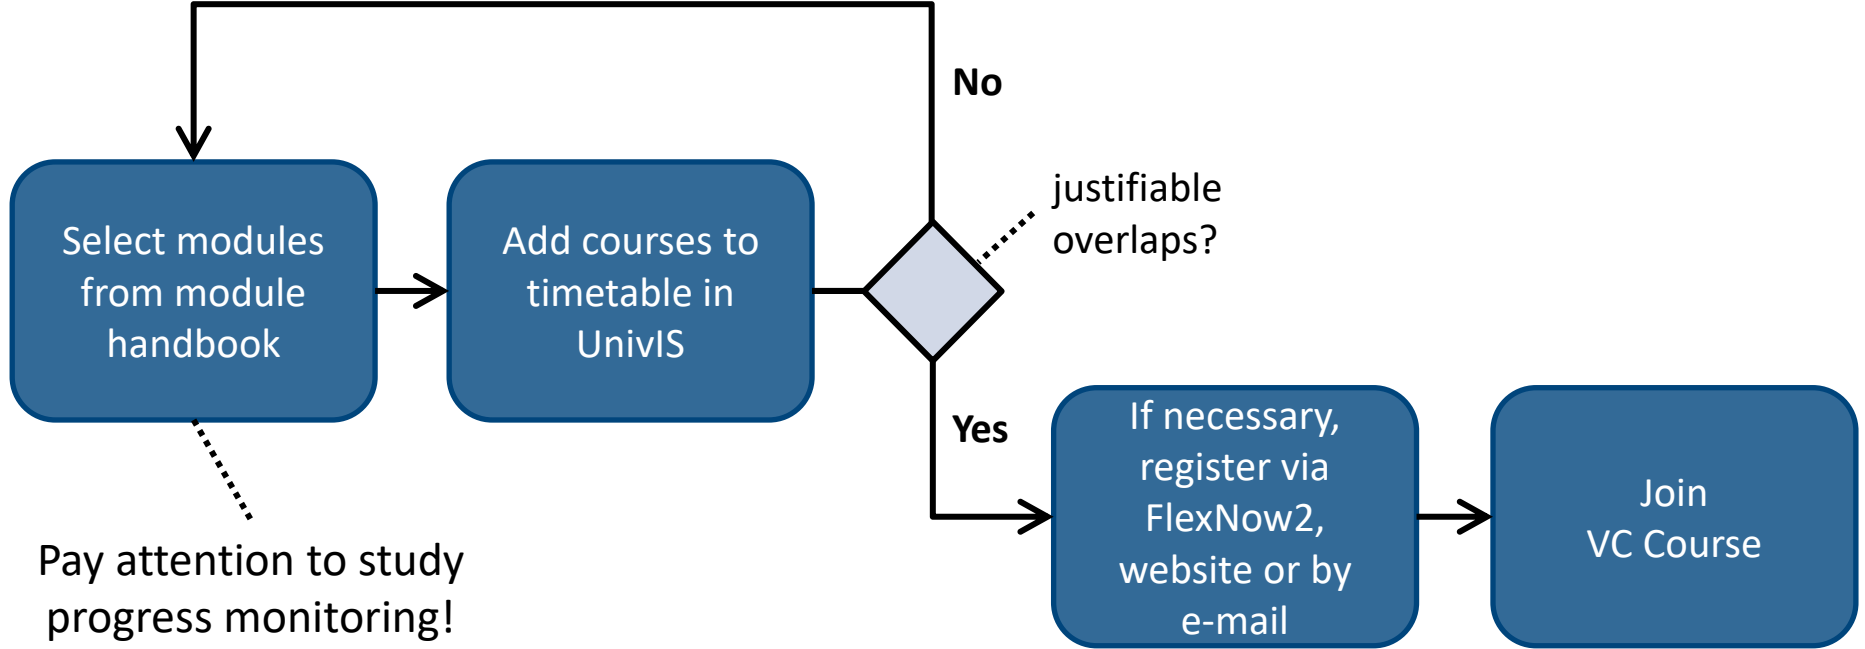

University events and timetable creation

At the university you are not given any timetables, you can choose your own module.

For orientation, you will find sample timetables for this semester in the freshman brochures for many degrees.

> ℹ️ Caution: Events usually take place "c.t.". "14 o'clock" means, for example, that the start is at 14:15. (Opposite: "s.t.": 2 pm = 2:00 pm)

Timetable creation – hands-on!
